Academics

Throughout a tour of WCU's campus, students are surrounded by academic buildings, various academic activities, other students, and numerous festivals that anyone can attend. The festivals, activities, and buildings force the student body to join together, creating a home away from home feeling. The various festivals and activities also encourage students to perform to the best of their ability. The buildings encourage academic learning that goes beyond the campus. It is through programs such as music and education that West Chester University extends to the community. Academics play a vital role in supporting the growth of WCU students and providing a base of knowledge they need to know to continue their journey into life.

Academic Buildings

The Buildings in and around campus become familiar sights for students throughout their years at the university. Each building has a characteristic of its own. Some, such as Philips, add a gothic look to the campus. Many know about the whispering arch, where if you whisper words of wisdom to a friend on one side of the arch, the friend can clearly hear what you are saying on the other side. Buildings such as the Green Library have a very contemporary look to it. Every year, restorations are made to many of the buildings to upkeep their particular look and style. This year, the Old Library's front steps were restored. Of course, there is always talk for future buildings such as a new Swope Hall. Specs were released this year to show the final result. Each student has a particular favorite as well as a particular not-so-favorite. No matter what students think about the academic buildings, they are our campus.

Academic Quad

Students spend the majority of their time in the Academic Quad because that is where the majority of the classes are held. Far left: The Harvey Green Library is open for business from 8 a.m. until 12 midnight during the week. During finals, hours are extended for students to have a quiet working environment. Students use the library for research, to study, and as a copy center. The bottom floor contains a children's library with hundreds of children selections. Left bottom: Main Hall holds many of the general education classes and Liberal Arts classes such as English and Foreign Languages. The five story building holds hundreds of classes each day for thousands of students. Left: Ruby Jones is part of the Academic Quad. Students mostly in the Social Work Department spend their time here. Below: Education students know Recitation Hall best. Most of their classes are held there.

The Academic Quad extends to buildings such as Anderson and Philips. Below: Philips Hall has many administration offices. It also has an auditorium for performances such as Dance Production Workshop and piano recitals. The University supported many guest speakers that come to speak in Philips Library. The building adds a sense of tradition to the campus. Right: Anderson Hall is the home for many Computer Science majors and Math majors. It was known for the "business" atmosphere. The campus computer labs are located in Anderson as well. Far right: The Anthropology Department holds its offices in the Old Library. Many students enrolled in culture classes spend time in the Old Library. The Old Library keeps a historical feeling on campus. It has been around for years, and before the Harvey Green Library was built, it was the main source for knowledge. Below right: Many Physical Education classes are held in Holinger Gym.

Studying

Studying is an important part of all college students' lives. In order to succeed in life, one needs to learn skills that will aid he or she in their future endeavors. Organization, determination, and patience are some of the skills needed to succeed. This success in school, and ultimately life, could not be achieved without studying. Each student has his or her own style for studying. Many find it helpful to study with friends to motivate each other. Others study in pairs and bounce their knowledge off of each other. More often than not, students pull the famous "all nighters" to cram for tests or finish their last minute papers. Location also plays a key part in studying. Most students who live in dorms form a habit of studying on the bed. Needless to say, this leads to sleep. Many avoid the library like the plague, while others love the library and cannot focus unless they are there. The habits formed in college continue into the future. The key is determination to see the end result and being proud of what you accomplished.

Summer Orientation

Summer Orientation was an introduction to incoming Freshmen to the University. It helped acclimate the incoming Freshmen to the world that would soon become their home for the next four years, or however many years it took to graduate. With a summer camp attitude, upper-classmen lead orientation for the incoming Freshmen. The incoming Freshmen experienced dorm life, toured the campus, and met many of the people they would soon call their classmates. The upper-classmen ran programs to promote unity, getting to know the campus, and getting to know what it is like being away from home for the first time ever. Orientation was a chance for some to meet their future roommate or meet a familiar face to see around campus when the semester began. Although there were many groups of orientation held over the summer, the orientation leaders remained the same for the entire summer. They bonded through late night water gun fights to playing hide and go seek in the dorms. Overall, Summer Orientation was a great experience for many. -Sarah Danitz

Student Life

Whether in the library cramming for a test, working on a group project, or socializing outside of their classes, students can always be found in and around campus. Many students chose to live on campus for convenience, to save money, and to be close to their classes. Student's lives revolved around class schedules and homework deadlines. Many of WCU's students balance their workload with a job during the semester to make some extra spending money. Other students, who do not work, participate in organizations such as fraternities or sororities. Students enjoy the social scene of such activities. Student life can best be described as hectic and crazy throughout the whole year, especially toward the end of the semester.

Residence Halls

Ramsey Hall

Ramsey Hall, named after former English professor Dorothy Ramsey, is one of three Y-shaped buildings on North Campus. Ramsey Hall sits on the corner of Sharpless and New Streets next to the Lawrence Center. It is the oldest residence hall and has 6 floors. This residence hall houses approximately 400 students and is a co-ed building. It has pool tables, study lounges, vending machines and a kitchen for its residents to use. Ramsey Hall is also home to a study center for students which is located in the basement.

Tyson Hall

Tyson Hall is the second of the Y-shaped buildings and is named after Elizabeth S. Tyson. Ms. Tyson was the pioneer of West Chester University's Speech Clinic. Tyson Hall houses about 450 male and female students living on co-ed floors and wings. There are three wings connected by a common lobby where students can study or hang out with their friends. This hall has seven floors and has ping pong tables, pool tables and air hockey tables in the first floor lobby.

Goshen Hall

Goshen Hall, named after former Psychology Chair and public education specialist Anne M. Goshen, is the third Y-shaped building and houses around 450 male and female students. As another co-ed residence hall, Goshen is comprised of single sex and co-ed wings. This residence hall also has a common lobby for the students it houses and has various recreational activities such as pool tables and ping pong tables in its first floor lobby.

McCarthy Hall

McCarthy Hall, named after first Dean of Women Grace D. McCarthy, is an all female residence hall. It is the only single sex residence hall on campus and houses approximately 250 females. Located in McCarthy's basement is the McCarthy Children's Center. The center allows students to learn teaching skills while working with small children.

Sanderson Hall

Sanderson Hall is named after WCU alumni Christian C. Sanderson. He was an artist, writer, historian and a teacher. Sanderson Hall is a nine story co-ed residence hall. This residence hall houses around 350 students in its single sexed and co-ed wings. Located in the Residential Quad in front of Sanderson are lighted volleyball and basketball courts.

Wayne Hall

Named after General Anthony Wayne who served with George Washington in the Revolutionary War, Wayne Hall is a nine floor residence hall that houses approximately 350 male and female students on six of its floors. PACE and the Health Center also reside in Wayne Hall.

Schmidt Hall

Schmidt Hall is named after Gertrude K. Schmidt who was the leader of the music program here at WCU. Schmidt Hall is a "V" shaped co-ed residence hall and houses about 400 students. Schmidt is located on the corner of Rosedale and New Streets across from the Calvary Lutheran Church.

Killinger Hall

Home of the "Killer Bees" Killinger Hall is a "U" shaped residence hall and is named after Glenn Killinger former Dean of Men and football coach. Also known as K-hall is the only residence hall with a 24 hour quiet policy for all of its floors. K-hall houses approximately 300 male and female students, many who belong in the pre-med and Honor programs.

North Campus

Moving in to the dorm was never easy! Fighting traffic, fighting for an elevator to avoid the steps, and fighting the heat made the day all the more longer for parents and students. With limited parking on campus, parents often parked on the grass, unpacked the car on the lawn, then drove away leaving their son or daughter to carry their belongings up to their room. After the unpacking of the car, the set up of the room began. Extension cords became a necessary item to plug in computers, lamps, and alarm clocks. Students were not allowed the luxury of microwaves and hot pots at WCU. Carpet was a must to create a warmer feeling to the room. Then, nine months later, students and parents had to do put up with the hassle all over again with the moving out process. Living in the dorm provided students with a situation to make friends, make study buddies, and have fun. Although dorm life had a few regulations, such as no drinking and quiet hours, the structure taught students how to balance their time between studying and socializing. Most students only lived in the dorms for two years then moved off campus, but some enjoyed the dorm experience and stayed for all of their college career.

Many students added furniture of their own to the apartment such as beanbags. Right: The bus ran every fifteen minutes from North to South Campus. Students had to allot themselves time to be early to class. Below: Having a kitchen allowed for students to have many goodies.

-Sarah Danitz

South Campus

A short walk away from North Campus, South Campus allowed students the convenience of an apartment without much of the hassle that comes along with leasing one. Students often made the transition from North to South Campus for many reasons. Many were not ready to leave campus, they liked the feeling of living on campus. Others did not have enough roommates to move off of campus, therefore, had to move into South, while student housing assigned five people to an apartment. Others did not beat the apartment search in time and find housing in the West Chester area, therefore, decided to move into a South Campus apartment. Whatever the reason, many would agree that the apartments were nice to live in. With a kitchen, three bedrooms, and a living room area, students had more space to spread out than in the dorms. They also had the luxury of not worrying about monthly rent and bills such as utilities. Others would not agree that the apartments were convenient due to the fact that they were a mile away from campus, and students had to take the bus to get to class on time. Whether students liked living on South or not, many students only lived there for one to two years.

-Sarah Danitz

Familiar Sightings

Familiar sightings were a comfort for WCU students. The shops, restaurants, and bars in and around town were like a second home for students. For Freshmen, the next four years would give them an opportunity to get to know some of the best locations in West Chester. For other students who had been here for many years, they had their favorites. Iron Hill was often the most talked about restaurant/bar in West Chester. It was known for its laid back atmosphere. Other favorites on Friday and Saturday nights included 15 North and The Rat. These two provided students with live music and dancing. For those who wanted to avoid the crowds and chill with friends, Spence Cafe often did the trick. Other students looked for convenience around campus. Wawa was just down the street, and Seven Eleven was a short walk away. Whether students needed a cigarette break or a soda to refuel, Wawa and Seven Eleven were easy to find. When chilling with friends on a hot summer night, Rita's was right down the road. Mango was preferred by many. Each student had their own favorite locations in and around West Chester. Students were lucky because the area had so much to offer.

Free Time

Free time was hard to come by with students. Many times their schedule did not allow time for relaxing during the week. Between classes and extra-curricular activities, students had to find time to do the things they loved. People had different interests and found different ways to relax. Some socialized with friends. They went out to eat at one of the many restaurants in and around West Chester. Others found comfort in spending time by themselves. Running or creating an art piece was often relaxing for some. Anything students could do to escape from studying for awhile always helped students relax and have fun. For students who lived on campus, the campus provided volleyball and basketball courts for students to utilize. Many times, students would play late into the night with huge spot lights shining on the court. The WCU gym was located in Sykes Student Union and was free for students with their ID. Exercising was always encouraged to relieve stress. Swope was usually open for students who wanted to practice their skills and release their stress on a piano or other instruments. Whatever students did in their free time, boredom did not lure around WCU's campus.

-Sarah Danitz

The Community

Without the surrounding community, West Chester would not thrive. The community adds so much character to the University. People in the community are seen around campus daily, whether they work in the administration offices or volunteer their time in Sykes Student Union. Students have the opportunity to learn and grow from the people they come across each day. The surrounding elementary schools also add opportunity to WCU's campus. Students can volunteer or work with children in the daycares or schools around campus. They then can see many of the children they work with outside of the classroom because many families live around campus. The community takes care of the WCU students. Walking down Church Street students will never go hungry. People from the community have set up lunch trucks and coffee trucks that are affordable for students. In a way, students are giving back to them by supporting their business. Without the community West Chester students would not succeed in success. The community gives students so many opportunities to work, volunteer, and play. With these opportunities, students can build their resumes for the future and toward better success.

Events

From Brian's Run, to plays, to WCU Afterdark, there is always something going on at WCU to entertain students. Students always look forward to events such as Banana Day, which takes place in the spring. Banana Man runs around in a banana suit and gives out free bananas to promote healthiness. LUVIM always has a new and interesting speaker to challenge students to think beyond WCU each month. Topics include politics, religion, and world affairs. The Women's Center sponsors events such as "Take Back the Night" and "Vagina Monologues" to raise awareness of violence against women. WCU Afterdark promotes clean activities for students who do not want to drink on the weekends. They bring in comedians, dance parties, hit movies, and anything else they can think of to attract students. Students at WCU are spoiled and surrounded by events to keep them from getting bored.

Homecoming

Homecoming is one of the most festive times on campus. It is the reuniting of alumni and current students, and the re-introduction of alumni to the host of changes that have occurred since they left just a short time ago. The festivities include the parade, football game, and announcement of Homecoming King and Queen. The various pictures depict members of the court as well as the game that night. Miss WCU 2002

December 2, 2001 marked the second annual Miss WCU pageant. The contestants enter as strangers and many leave with new friendships. Led by Heather Richards, Miss WCU 2001, the contestants performed dance numbers to show off their personalities. From there, each contestant participated in talent, evening wear, and interview competitions. The contestants had many talents ranging from vocal musical performance, dance and gymnastics to reading poetry. The 2002 winners were 4th runner up: Ashly Adam, 3rd runner up: Belle Kennedy, 2nd runner up: Lindsay VanZile, 1st runner: Rachel Brooks, and Miss WCU 2002: Jessica Ritter.

-Jen Corzine

Deck Party

Warm weather makes anyone happy. For students, it gave them time to relax. The local bars around WCU's campus had creative promoting techniques for relaxation. The Rat, a bar right across from WCU's campus opened up their deck and held deck parties for students depending on the weather. Many Friday afternoons in the spring the Rat was packed with students giving them a break from studying. It also gave them a chance to socialize and work on their tan. Music was always a must so the Rat provided a dj. They also provided drink specials to attract students. Students enjoyed the chill atmosphere and the chance to see their friends.

Brian's Run

In its 21th year, Brian's Run has become a huge event for WCU. It began in 1978 to raise money for Brian Bratcher who was paralyzed as a result of a football injury at Henderson High School. Banana Day

One of the more beloved events is Banana Day. Why, you ask? We think it's because it is random and fun. The purpose, according to creator RD Rudy of Killinger Hall, is to bring students together and unite the campus.

September 11, 2001

When tragedy strikes, the unity throughout America shines. No one thought the events that occurred on the morning of September 11, 2001 were even thinkable. The first commercial flight hit the twin towers and exploded, killing all members on board. People in the building were told to stay where they were and they would be safe. Minutes later, the two twin towers toppled. Terror continued to break out in other parts of the country. A second flight hit the Pentagon in Washington D.C., killing all members as well. Later that day, a flight taken over by terrorists crashed into the ground in western Pennsylvania. No one knew who to hold responsible for the actions of evil and pure fright broke out throughout the country. President Bush took action right away proclaiming that this type of terror would not be tolerated in our country. Americans throughout the country cried as they watched the news on television, but united together to show their love and support for the heroes. Firefighters, volunteers, and many other heroes spent countless hours cleaning up the mess that would change the lives of every person throughout the world.

-Sarah Danitz

WCU Remembers...

West Chester University and community remembered the victims of 9-11 in their own way. A candle light vigil was held in honor of all the heroes in the Academic Quad. Students volunteered to pass out candles and flags to other students and neighbors. Students also signed posters expressing their love and fear for the victims and their families. The posters were hung in Sykes Student Union. Dr. Madeleine Wing Adler spoke to students encouraging them not to live in fear. The class president also spoke to students. After the ceremony, students stayed around the Quad to pray and sing together, reaching out to those in distress. The event was truly touching for the community. -Sarah Danitz

Moving Out

The trash that piles up outside of dorms while moving out is ridiculous. While packing up and moving out, students make many decisions to trash many of their once-so-important items such as carpets, television sets, alarm clocks, and many other things. Some of the decision to trash items may be supported by parents, who drive from home to help their son or daughter move out. Manipulating all of students necessities to fit in one car can be difficult at times. The countless trips in and out of the dorm can be trying for families as well. No matter how much stuff students throw away, the process will repeat itself the following year, students will have as much stuff, and parents will have the same headaches.

-Katie Einsig

LUVIM Speakers

Students often have the opportunity to ask questions after the guest has completed their lecture. This gives everyone a chance to better understand the topic and one another.

Left: Steven Lawson's lecture was "Debating the Civil Rights Movement, 1945-1968." He focusses upon what strategies were most effective in the struggles to desegregate the South. Below: Sally Satel, M.D. spoke on the topic "How Political Correctness is Corrupting Medicine." She discussed what happens when the tenets of political correctness are allowed to enter the fortress of medicine.

Bottom left: Gerald Oster, Ph.D. has been a youth psychologist for 20 years and came to WCU to talk about "The Many Faces of Teenage Depression." The discussion was geared toward students and their parents, teaching everyone to recognize warning signs within themselves and their friends.

Cabaret and Talent Show

The speakers who come to campus vary greatly in their areas of expertise. It is inevitable that, at some point, there will be a topic that will catch each individual's attention. Right: Kim Phuc, known as the little girl in the picture from the Vietnam War, spoke about life in Vietnam and what it is like to overcome great adversity. She was badly burned by napalm during an air attack at the age of 9. Below: Elizabeth Schneider's topic was Violence and Equality: Battered Women and Feminist Lawmaking. She is a leading expert on gender discrimination, violence against women and the law. Bottom right: "Christian Critics: Religion and the Impasse in Modern Social Thought" was presented by Eugene McCarragher. He spoke about the ways that Christian thinkers perceived the nation and its people.

-Katie Einsig

LUVIM Speakers

The lecturers can range from local professors to critically acclaimed and well known authors. Most of the participants have written a book or their own form of material and use it as a presentation tool during their discussion. Left: Tara Parker-Pope lead discussion on her topic of "Cigarettes: Anatomy of an Industry From Seed to Smoke." A reporter for the Wall Street Journal, Ms. Parker-Pope has also worked in London as a consumer products and marketing reporter. Below: Deb Price "Aiming High: A Lesbian Columnist's Tips on Translating Your Ideals into Achievement." She became the first openly gay columnist to write on gay issues for a major metropolitan daily newspaper. Her Detroit News column is syndicated and appears in over 100 papers nationally. Bottom left: Father Greg Boyle is the founder/director of Jobs for a Future/Homeboy Industries, an employment referral center for at-risk and gang involved youth. His lecture was based on his journey through this rewarding experience.

Impressions

Athletics

Sports hold a high importance at WCU. Students use sports as an outlet to relieve stress, exercise, and have fun. Belonging on a winning team takes dedication and time. Dedication includes giving up summers to attend practice and camps. It also means losing sleep during the year due to late nights of practice and then hitting the books. Most athletes would agree that all the hard work is worth it. The strength gained from such an experience teaches them to finish what they start. Athletes also know that hard work does not always come with great results. Although they play their hardest, winning is not a guarantee. They learn to lose with dignity and still come home proud to be a Ram. Whether winning or losing, athletes remember to have fun and enjoy the experience.

Organizations

Getting involved in organizations on campus helps students build for their future. They gain leadership qualities that future employers look for when hiring. Most students get involved in an organization their Freshman year. By their Senior year they hold positions on Executive Board such as President and Vice President. Some students split their time in more than one organization. Having an organizational advisor helps students when they need recommendations. Getting involved in organizations can only benefit students for their future. -Sarah Danitz

Music & Marching

Marching Band

The West Chester Marching Band works hard. The members come to West Chester before classes start in August to begin practicing. They also practice every afternoon, even in the rain and heat. They perform at the football games, parades and exhibitions. The Marching Band is dedicated and always works their best to put on a great show for West Chester University.

Community Service

Circle K

Circle K donates their time to serve for both the University and the West Chester community. The Group holds its meetings every Monday at 7:30. Circle K has been an organization at West Chester since 1995. Some of the places that Circle K can be seen helping out at is at the YMCA, the Ronald McDonald House and Care Center for Chirst. They also donate time helping the United Way.

HONOR

Phi Sigma Pi and Friars

Top: Friars Society

The Friars were founded in 1937 at West Chester University. The members are always seen volunteering to benefit others on and off campus. They also recognize and develop collegiate friendship, leadership abilities and overall character.

Bottom: Phi Sigma Pi

Phi Sigma Pi was founded in 1988 at West Chester University. The organization is a co-ed honor fraternity. They strive to uphold a tripod of leadership, fellowship and honor.

Seniors

Senioritis hits Seniors at different times during the year. Some enter the semester with senioritis. It does not hit others until after Spring Break. The closer it gets to graduation, the more seniors are ready to be done taking tests, studying, and writing papers. They have worked four (or more) years for the moment to walk down the aisle and receive their diploma. They have earned it and it is a moment that no one can take away from them. Seniors prepare for their future in different ways. Many West Chester seniors student taught their final semester. Student teaching was a way for Seniors to see how much work was involved in teaching. Others took internships to prepare for their future in the surrounding community. This time of life was an exciting time because Seniors could take their experiences and do what they want with them. They had endless possibilities of options. -Sarah Danitz

Seniors

Yet another academic year comes to an end for many students here at West Chester University. Along with a closing comes a new beginning. The commencement ceremony marks the start of new chapter of life. WCU holds two commencement ceremonies throughout the year, one in May and one in December. Many students have begun the interview process to start their careers. Others plan to attend graduate school to further their education. Some still do not know the direction their life will take, therefore they plan to take some time off for the next year. No matter where students end up, all over the country or even all over the world, the memories they made at WCU will stay in their hearts forever. Each senior should be proud of their accomplishments and happy that their lives are only beginning.

-Cristen Fedor

December Graduation

December 16, 2001

Right: This student tries to get his mom's attention by decorating his cap for the graduation ceremony. Students decorate their caps and gowns in any creative way possible including using glitter, masking tape, and paint. Below right: This senior gets a hug and flowers from her family members after the ceremony. Finding your family after graduation is nearly impossible. Below: This is the point when all the hard work seems worth it. This senior has finally achieved all he has worked so hard for in the past few years.

-Christen Fedor

Top: Students anxiously await the announcement of their names to close the commencement ceremony and take the next step into their lives. Bottom left: In order to ensure she will remember this day forever, this Senior captures the moment. Little did she know that someone was photographing her while she was taking the picture. Bottom right: This student could not wait to get out of here, but before he did he wanted everyone to see that he received his diploma.

Below left: This Ram says goodbye to her undergraduate work forever. Below right: These friends pose for a picture to mark their memories here at WCU. Bottom left: All seniors stood and cheered for their classmates with pride when the speaker system failed during the procession of the School of Arts and Sciences. Students were advised to keep the program moving, walked the stage, but were not able to hear their names read. Bottom right: It is every Seniors pride and joy to receive their diploma in front of their loved ones.

-Sarah Danitz

May Graduation

May 11, 2002

Top: Sitting in the heat through any long program can make anyone hungry. These two Rams had the right idea to bring a snack to hold them through the three hour ceremony. Most would agree that the ceremony was long and hot. Regardless of the heat and the long hours, friends and family were happy to see their special graduate receive their much earned diploma.

Left: Members of the underclassmen were able to participate in the ceremony by representing flagbearers. Among the flags carried included the West Chester University flag and the national flag.

Kristin M. Leisey

Dear Kristin,

Well, the end is finally here. The end of four years of hard work to earn a degree that no one can ever take away from you! And the next chapter of your life is about to begin...You'll be able to get a job and make the world a better place to live. We've watched you grow and mature and become quite independent. It's been fun to watch! You've always been kind, caring, and optimistic in life. These are the qualities that make you so special and fun to be around. Embrace life and live it to the fullest.

Always remember:

What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lives within us.

We love you and are so proud of you Kristin!

You can accomplish anything you want to accomplish.

Love,

Mom, Dad, Lane, & Matthew

2001-2002

David E. Sajeski

Dear David,
Your mantra should be "A bend in the road is not the end of the road." Your drive, determination, and love of life have helped you overcome numerous obstacles and accomplish a great deal. Your entire family is very proud of you and wish you tons of success and happiness as you begin another chapter in your life.

Love always,
Mother, Dad, & the rest of the Sajeskis and Finleys

Amy Abrams

Dear Amy,
We are proud of you! We wish you lots of love, happiness, and contentment in your heart always!

We love you!
Mom & Ron

Francesco Piperis

Dear Franco,
We love you very much and are so proud of you. May your life be full of good health, much happiness and success. Auguri!

Love, Papa, Mima, &
Lolly

*Nicholas A.

Nick,
You've always made us very proud. Don't ever change. Congratulations on your graduation.

Love, Mom & Dad

Libby Smith

Libby, Each place along the way is somewhere you had to be to be here.

Love,

Mom & Dad

*Kristin M.
Camm*

Dear Kristin,
Congratulations! We are so proud of your accomplishments. We wish you all the special joys that life can bring. May your goals be as high as they are on this special day and may all your dreams come true.

You got the world on a strings! We love you.

Mom, Dad, & Alison

Sarah Danitz

Dear Sarah,
Dreams: Things remembered and things to come:
Your first crawl
Your first steps
Riding a bike
First school play First prayers and Starbucks bears in four years (and now an unlimited future).

In your heart, you have been touched by God, and now the future is yours to share as new dreams come true. We are so proud of you and love you dearly.

Love,

Mom, Dad, Matt,
Mike, Meagan,
Christine, and David

Camilla Stout

Hey Cammy! We wanted to let you know how proud we are of you. You have fought the good fight, you have finished the race, and most importantly, you have kept the faith (2 Timothy 4:7). Keep seeking God's will for your life. As an art teacher, or in whatever you do. We know you'll impact many lives for Jesus. One day you'll receive that crown of righteousness.

Love,
Dad & Nise

Juaneka Harling

We are so proud of you. Your perseverance is to be commended. You can do all things through Christ who strengthens you. Keep the faith and never give up. God is on your side. Be encouraged, you have made it!!! Big Neke! God bless, we love you,
The Family

Paula Paxson

Paula Dear,
I'm so proud of you. You finish everything you start. You do it all with determination and class. You are kind and generous.
I love you,
Mom

David Robinson

Dear David,
"A teacher is indeed wise when he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind." Continue to walk your own path and go to your destiny.
With heartfelt pride and love,
Mom & Dad

Sheila Drewes Mayer

Congratulations to my graduate! I'm very proud of you, not only for your accomplishment but for the incredible amount of hard work and determination you applied. The Shy's the limit
Love, Bill

*Brian M.
Wearshing*

Dear Brian,
We knew you could do it! Words can't express how PROUD we are to have a WCU graduate in our family. These four years have flown by so quickly and you have a lot of great memories to keep in your heart. It seems like only yesterday that we moved you into the dorm to start your freshman year. You have worked so hard to make your dream come true- go out into the world and be the BEST!
Good luck, congratulations and may your future be all that you want it to be-you deserve it! We love you, Mom, Big John, & Leah

Megan E. Brown

To our Daughter...
You have been a source of pride for us from the moment you were born. Your childhood brought us many delights. You began to create almost as soon as you could hold a pencil.

We were not surprised when you chose Fine Arts as your field of study. We have watched you grow into a lovely young woman. You show great passion in your art and a genuine appreciation for every living thing. We love you more than any words could ever convey. We thank you and applaud you for being a wonderful daughter and a kind and compassionate human being. May you never lose sight of your dreams, nor in your ability to achieve them. With love and pride,
Mommy & Daddy

Keona Marie Scales

Congratulations!
Through the years you have made us very proud of you. We wish you continued success. May your future be filled with the Lord's special blessings and may you always walk in Jesus' love.
Mom, Grandmom, Grandpop, Uncle Mario,
Aunt Pam, Mario Jr., Justin & Lauryn

Lisa Ann Minieri

Lisa,
Congratulations! We are so proud of all your accomplishments. We love you.
Love,
Mom & Dad

Justin Gallagher

Dear Justin,
Thanks for the laughs, the challenges, and the lively discussions as we tried to mesh your world with ours. We're so proud of you, not for grades or accomplishments, that goes without saying, but for sticking to your beliefs and being who you are. Congratulations and all our love,
Mom, Dad, Collin, & Kristin

Joel B. Rubinsky

Joel (Maestro)
Rubinsky,
Everything you are and everything you do makes us proud that you're our son. Congratulations on your graduation!

What a transformation from that shy little girl going to nursery school to an outstanding Social Work Student of the Year, and one of the most involved, committed to your values, caring, friendly, organized, and intelligent persons we know. We love you and are proud to have you as our daughter.

Love,
Mom & Dad

Sara Weitzenkorn

Dear Sara,
Through the years we've watched you grow into a beautiful, intelligent young woman. Keep striving for your goals, keep moving to the beat, continue to be yourself. We're proud of your many accomplishments and cherish the talents you have. Be confident in your ability to take on new challenges. There is a wonderful world waiting for you to explore. Enjoy the journey. With unlimited love and affection, Mom, Dad, Rachel, Mike, & Nanny

Dana Shaw

Dana,
Your family and friends are so proud of your accomplishments. We wish you all the success in Graduate School and beyond. Wishing that you reach and achieve all your dreams. "May God bless you always." We love you,
Mom, Dad, & Family

Dana Nottingham

Dear Dana,
May God bless you in all your endeavors which you pursue in the future. Remember to keep God first in your life and follow all His ways so that you may be blessed abundantly in all your steps. Love, Mom, Dad, Grandparents, & a host of relatives & friends.

Jason Levy

Jason, Best wishes in the future at whatever you wish to be.

We all love you,

Kathleen Perry

Kathy, Congratulations on your graduation. Two bouts of mono and accounting class couldn't keep you from achieving this goal. We are so proud. May all your dreams come true. Love, Mom, Dad, Chris, Whiskers, & Domino

Christopher Cerrito

Dear Chris,
Have we told you lately
we are so proud, not only of the accomplishments, but of the outstanding person you are. We thank God every day for giving us the privilege of being your parents. Thank you for being you, for enriching our lives, and for all the joy you have and have yet to bring us. Our wish for you is a lifetime of health, happiness and much success. You deserve this and so much more.
Again, thank you for being you, our #1 son.
All our love,
Mom & Dad

Carolyn Ann DeNicolo

From that first day of nursery school, to this day of graduation at WCU, you have been a shining star in everything you have accomplished. With a never say die attitude, you have strode ahead with a determination to succeed in every goal you set for yourself. Through the laughter and the tears, you have made your family proud. We wish you nothing but the best in your future as a music teacher. You'll always be, "Our Little Girl."
Love,
Mom, Dad, Adam, Cookie, and Birdie

*Elizabeth L.

Brooke Buchanan

Dear Brooke,
Today is your college graduation. Is it possible? Twenty-one years ago God sent you to us and you have been a joy ever since. You changed from a little girl into a beautiful young woman. Your strong will and determination have paid off and made us most proud. We love you more than ever and we offer our sincere congratulations on this your special day.
Our Love,
Mom & Dad

Jacqueline Lugo

A woman of courage enters a room, and everyone is put at ease.

There is something appealing in the way she walks and in the way she holds herself. It is a privilege being your sister. You are brave and confident, and you set such a wonderful example. You are my hero and inspiration. May all your wishes and dreams come true.

What a great achievement, no one deserves it more. No one would be more proud of you than mom! Congratulations!

Love,
Mom & Maria

Madleine Ghebremariam

M,

You cared so much and worked so hard to get where you are. Intelligent, proud, and strong yet overflowing with love is what keeps you moving ahead. May the future be as bright as the promises of God. We love you.

2002 Yearbook

The 2002 Serpentine Yearbook was composed using Taylor's EliteVision software by Sarah Danitz, Jen Corzine, Amy Brubaker, Cristen Fedor, Meg Schott, Katie Eisnig, Yvette Forest, and Calvin Braxton under the advisement of Mike Peich. Pictures were taken by Carl Wolf Studios. Ed Patrick Jr. assisted the Serpentine staff under Taylor's representation. There are 1,650 copies in print. Fonts used include Seville, Seville Bold, Seville Italic. The cover used is a Taylor design with lithocotte material and a matte finish. Brass foil is applied. The endsheets are 90 pound passport quartz paper. Black and white pages are printed on 80 pound double coated enamel stock. Color pages are printed on 100 pound double coated enamel stock. Photoshop Elements assisted in the production of some color pages. The book is printed from the Malvern plant.

This being my senior year, I have so much to look forward to in my future. I must say that it has been a fun senior year! Coming on staff to the Serpentine at the last minute is not something I recommend. It makes life hectic and stressful, but worthwhile. To start something from scratch and see its completion is always something that is rewarding. Of course I could not have done it without the help of the staff. Jen-Thank you for all your help. Calvin and Yvette-You two are so well organized! Thank you for all the time you dedicated to to the books! It is something I never could of done! Aim-Thank you for sports and reminding me to not stress, after all, it is our senior year! Good luck with life and keep in touch! Katie- Good luck next year, you will do great! No obstacle is too tough for you! N.O. was so much fun! Meg and Cristen- Thank you for coming on to staff in the last minute. Take the next few years in college and embrace them! Ed-Thanks for driving the countless miles to help! I appreciate it. Mike D.- Thank you for pulling pictures at the last minute and whatever else you did at the last minute to make this book happen! Pictures are worth a thousand words, yours are awesome! Mike Peich- Where would I be without you? This is your fault! Thank you for the opportunity and for having faith in me! Good luck with the books to come! Sarah Danitz-Editor

Lasting

After a year of many events, each student leaves with imprints that will affect their future endeavors. Many look forward to another year here at WCU, others look forward to a future of endless possibilities, and all look forward to more Lasting Impressions. -S. Danitz
